02 / ICON MARK

Octagonal Shield

The mark on its own, for app icons, social avatars, and small-scale applications where "HazardOS" is already established.

03 / CONSTRUCTION

Mark Anatomy

The shield is a regular octagon on a 512-unit grid. The H glyph sits centered with precise optical balance.

GEOMETRY

Regular 8-sided polygon inscribed in a 512×512 grid with 24-unit margin. Orange outer stroke (28 units) sits outside the navy fill, creating a clean two-tone badge readable at any scale.

- OCTAGON — 232-unit radius, flat-top orientation
- STROKE — 28 units, Orange #FF6B35
- FILL — Navy #1F2937
- H MARK — 200×220 bounding box, 40-unit stems, 24-unit crossbar
- CLEAR SPACE — equal to full icon height on all sides
- MIN SIZE — 16px digital, 6mm print

04 / FAVICONS

Small-Size Variant

At 16–32px the full octagon with ring gets muddy. The favicon variant simplifies to a solid navy octagon with thicker orange H, rendered with pixel-snapped edges.

07 / USAGE RULES

Do & Don't

Quick reference for keeping the mark consistent across channels.

✓ DO

- Use color on white or light backgrounds
- Use white reverse on navy, dark, or photographic backgrounds
- Use black for single-ink printing, faxes, and embroidery
- Maintain clear space equal to the icon height on all sides
- Prefer the horizontal lockup for web headers and email signatures
- Prefer the vertical lockup for splash screens and business cards
- Use the icon-only mark below 120px wide or when context is established
- Use SVG for all web applications

✗ DON'T

- Don't rotate, stretch, or distort the logo
- Don't change colors or add drop shadows, glows, or gradients
- Don't place the color mark on an orange background
- Don't use the full lockup below minimum size — switch to the icon
- Don't separate the icon from the wordmark inside a lockup
- Don't outline, emboss, or add effects
- Don't alter letter spacing or rearrange elements
- Don't use low-resolution raster for print — always vector
